

OCEAN LINER HITS ICEBERG

1,200 Lives May Have Been Lost In Ma- rine Disaster

Steamer Titanic Had 2,100 Persons On Board—Only 866 Known To Have Rescued, Mostly Women And Children—Fate Of Others Still Remains In Doubt.

While the fate of the majority of the 2,100 persons on board the mammoth White Star liner Titanic, which sank early yesterday on the Newfoundland banks, after a collision with an iceberg, still remains in doubt, and it is feared more than 1,200 persons were lost, a note of good cheer came by wireless between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning.

It was in the shape of a wireless message from the White Star liner Olympic, one of the vessels hovering near the scene of the disaster, flashing the news that 866 of the Titanic's passengers, mostly women and children, were being brought to port by the Cunarder Carpathia. Other messages later brought contradictory tidings.

First reports were that the Carpathia had saved but 675 persons. The news reduced the list for whose fate fear was felt by nearly 200 and it, as seems probable, practically all those saved were passengers. It would appear that all but approximately 450 of the vessel's passengers are accounted for. A partial list of the survivors received from the Carpathia includes the names of many women of prominence who were on the steamer.

After the first desperate calls of the Titanic for help had been sent through space and brought steamers for hundreds of miles around speeding to the scene, what seems to have been an impenetrable wall of silence was raised between her and the anxious world. The giant liner, so far as last night's advice appears, went to her fate without so much as a whisper of what must have been the scenes of terrible tragedy enacted on her decks. In the lack of even a line from a survivor imagination pauses before even trying to conjecture what passed as the inevitable became known and it was seen that of the more than 2,000 human lives with which she was freighted there could be hope of saving, as it appears, far less than a half.

Other than the news last evening that 866 persons, largely women and children, had been rescued from the liner's boats by the Cunarder Carpathia, several hours passed without a word as to the fate of the remainder of those on board at the time of the fatal crash. Along the entire Atlantic coast wireless instruments were attuned to catch from any source the slightest whisper of hope that possibly one of the many steamships which rushed to the assistance of the stricken Titanic, contained other survivors of the sunken vessel. Belief from none of the ships to be at or near the scene, was viewed in the light of the probabilities may be recorded as the world's greatest marine horror, came the slightest syllable of encouragement.

Anxiety Deepened.

Early last night there was hope that any moment might bring a word of cheer. But anxiety deepened and many friends and relatives of those who sailed on the Titanic began to despair as hour after hour passed and the night grew old without word from either of the Allan liners, Parisian or Virginia, believed to be, with the exception of the Carpathia, the vessels nearest the Titanic's ocean burial place when she made her plunge.

As the Titanic sank before 3 o'clock in the morning and it was not hoped that the Virginian could reach the scene before 10 a. m. at the earliest while the Parisian was said to be some distance further away, it was feared even by the White Star officials, trying their best to calculate differently and yet accurately, that they would not have reached the scene in time to be of service. The steamer Virginian was heard from at 2:15 o'clock this morning. She did not report the presence of any survivors on board, the message from her stating that she would bring to St. Johns, N. F., such survivors as she "may rescue."

The fact that the Virginian was to go out of her course to put into St. Johns on her voyage to Liverpool was taken as a favorable indication, arousing hope that after all she might have picked up some of the victims of the wreck.

Two Miles Under Surface.
The Titanic herself lies buried two miles beneath the ocean's surface midway between Sable Island and Cape Race. Her position when she struck the iceberg was given as latitude 41:46 north; longitude 50:14 west.

According to the Carpathia's advice, the liner, which struck the iceberg at 10:25 Sunday night and sank at 2:20 Monday morning, nearly four hours later, in the latitude 41:46; longitude 50:14, or not more than half a degree south of the point where the collision occurred. It seems improbable from this that the liner, after the accident, made much headway under her own steam. It seems established that there was about 2,100 persons on the liner. This was the estimate of the liner's officials in New York, who gave the number of passengers as 1,210, the remainder 890 making up the crew.

No Word From Olympic.
The White Star line officials had endeavored vainly from 8 o'clock up till 11 p. m. to get further word from the Olympic about the Titanic. Vice President Franklin said at 11 o'clock they were still hopeful of getting another message to night.

The company was also trying to get into wireless communication with the Carpathia and filed a message asking that if possible a complete list of the names of the 675 survivors said to be on board the Carpathia be sent by wireless.

Such a list Vice President Franklin believes to be of the utmost importance, as hope was kindled among the White Star line officials to night that any others than these 675 persons had survived.

Amidst confusion at the office the situation was studied as calmly as possible. Mr. Franklin figured that notwithstanding his fervent hope to the contrary, the Allan line steamers Virginian and Parisian could hardly have reached the scene of the disaster in time to have been of assistance. When the Virginian first reported catching the "C. Q. D." signals, he said he was not likely to be able to reach the Titanic before 10 a. m. to day. That would have been nearly eight hours after the Titanic sank. It was equally doubtful that the Parisian could have reached the scene in time.

Mr. Franklin said that from his knowledge of Captain Smith's gallantry and heroism on other occasions, the veteran navigator must have stuck to his bridge and gone down to his death.

There was discussion as to whether all the male passengers had sacrificed opportunity to save themselves by giving women and children the first chance at the boats.

"There is no rule of the sea," said Mr. Franklin, "which requires such a sacrifice. It is a rule of courtesy on land as well as on sea that gallant men have often observed in time of disaster."

The White Star officials figured from their data that the Olympic was forty miles from the scene of the Titanic's sinking when she sent the news of it at 7 o'clock to night. At that hour the Carpathia was estimated to be 1,050 miles east of Sandy Hook.

Wealth Represented.
Great wealth was represented among the passengers of the Titanic, there being on board at least six men each of whose fortunes might be reckoned in tens of millions of dollars. A rough estimate of the total wealth represented on the first passenger list would reach over half a billion dollars.

The wealthiest of the list is Col. John Jacob Astor, head of the famous house whose name he bears, who is reputed to be worth $150,000,000. Mr. Astor was returning from a tour of Egypt with his bride who was Miss Madeline Force, to whom he was married in Providence on Sept. 9.

Benjamin Guggenheim, probably next in the financial important, is the fifth of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, who founded the American Smelting and Refining company, the great mining corporation, and is a director of many corporations, including the International Steam Pump company, of which he is also president. His fortune is estimated at $95,000,000. His wife, whose name does not appear on the passenger list, is the daughter of James Seligman, the New York banker.

George D. Widener is the son of P. A. B. Widener, the Philadelphia "traction king," whose fortune is estimated at $50,000,000.

Isador Straus, one of New York's most prominent dry goods merchants, and notable for his philanthropies, has a fortune also estimated to be worth $50,000,000. He is a director in various banks, trust companies and charitable institutions.

J. Bruce Ismay, president and one of the founders of the International Mercantile Marine, who has always made it a custom to be a passenger on the maiden trip of every new ship built by the company, is said to be worth $40,000,000. It was Mr. Ismay who with J. P. Morgan consolidated the American and British steamship lines under the International Mercantile Marine control.

Col. Washington Roebling, son of the builder of the Brooklyn bridge, president and director of John A. Roebling's Sons company, is credited with a fortune of $25,000,000.

Among those reputed wealthy who were on board are J. P. Taylor, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad; Clarence Moore, well known sportsman whose wife was Miss Mabel Swift, daughter of E. C. Swift, the Chicago meat picker, and Charles M. Hayes, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific and vice president and general manager of the Grand Trunk railway in Canada.

Other persons of note on the first cabin list are W. T. Stand, writer, journalist and war correspondent; Jacques Futrelle, the short story writer; Frederick M. Hoyt, a well known New York yachtsman; Dr. Washington Dodge of San Francisco; Henry Sleeper Harper, grandson of John Wesley Harper, one of the founders of Harper Brothers Publishing house; William E. Carter of Pittsburg, and Newport and Thomas Pears, Pittsburg Steel Manufacturers.

Had Little News.
News of the probable horrible loss of life in the sinking of the Titanic was limited to a few cables in the early evening, but by 9 o'clock it had brought a great crowd of persons to the White Star line offices near the foot of Broadway. Women were in tears and men were frantic over their plea for assuring news was the frank admission that very little was known of the fate of the passengers who were not in the first or second cabin.

All of the White Star line officials and subordinates available were on duty at the offices and planner to make a night of it under siege by reporters, relatives of passengers and others.

Admits Heavy Loss of Life.
New York, April 15.—Vice President Franklin, at 8:40 o'clock admitted that there had been a horrible loss of life in the Titanic disaster. He said that he had no information to disprove the Associated Press from Cape Race to the effect that only 675 of the passengers and crew had been rescued. He said that the monetary loss could not be estimated to night, although he intimated that it would run into the millions.

"We can replace the money," he added, "but not the lives."

Mr. Franklin continued:

"As far as we know it has been reported from Halifax that three steamers have passengers on board, namely, the Virginian, the Carpathia and Parisian. Now we have heard from Captain Haddock that the Titanic foundered at 2:20 this morning. We have also learned from him that the Carpathia had 675 survivors on board. It is very difficult to learn if the Virginian and the Parisian have any survivors on board. We have asked Captain Haddock and our agent at Halifax to ascertain if there are any passengers aboard the two steamships.

"We very much fear, however, there has been a great loss of life, and it is impossible for us to give further particulars until we have heard from the Parisian and Virginian. We have no information that there are any passengers aboard these two ships."

Mr. Franklin said there was a sufficient number of life boats to take all the passengers from the Titanic. He said that he had been confident to day, when he made the statement, that "the Titanic was unsinkable; that the ship was safe and that there would be no loss of life. The first definite news received came in the message from Captain Haddock, he said, and was given to the Associated Press at once.

The message received from Captain Haddock as made public, Mr. Franklin read:

"At 2:20 a. m., Titanic foundered. Carpathia proceeding to New York with passengers."

Text of Olympic's Dispatch.
The text of the message from the steamer Olympic reporting the sinking of the Titanic and the rescue of 675 survivors, which reached here late to night, also expressed the opinion that 1,800 lives were lost.

Loss likely total 1,800 souls," the dispatch said in its concluding sentence.

It is hoped and believed here that this is an error unless the Titanic had more passengers on board than was reported. The list as given out showed 1,310 passengers and a crew of 860, or 2,170 persons in all. Deducting 675, the known saved, would indicate a loss of 1,495 persons. The Olympic dispatch follows:

Carpathia reached Titanic's position at daybreak. Found boats and wreckage only. Titanic sank about 2:20 a. m. in 41:16 N. 50:14 W. All her boats accounted for, containing about 675 souls saved, crew and passengers included. Nearly all saved women and children. Legland liner California remained and search exact position of disaster. Loss likely to total 1,800 souls."

Wealth and Poverty Gather.
By midnight Bowling Green, in front of the White Star line offices, was the parking place of a large number of automobiles of prominent residents of the city who had driven down town for first hand information. Wealth and society rubbed elbows with poverty in the crowd that besieged the steamship officials and both classes were in deep grief. There were many instances of fashionably gown women going into hysterics when the hopeful reports of the afternoon were blasted with the news that probably only 675 persons had been saved. Vincent Astor, only son of Col. John Jacob Astor, accompanied by A. J. Biddle of Philadelphia, and Col. Astor's secretary, were among the crowd at the offices, and left with tears in their eyes after a 15 minute conference with Vice President Franklin. Relatives of Isador Straus and of a number of other prominent passengers had similar conferences with Mr. Franklin and came away with the same dejection.

Heavy Insurance.
The Titanic was insured at Lloyds for $5,000,000. Her cargo has been estimated at $10,000,000. The total monetary loss caused by the sinking of the ship, however, is certain to run to many millions more. It is generally understood that the vessel had aboard diamonds of great value estimated as high as $5,000,000 and also a large amount of bonds.

The ship also carried 3,425 bags of mail and her freight cargo is valued at about $500,000. Among those aboard the ship were Mrs. Edward S. Robert and Miss E. W. Allen and Theophile Papin, Jr., of St. Louis.

PRESIDENT TAFT ANXIOUS.
His Aide, Major Butt, Passenger on Ill-Fated Steamer.
Washington, April 15.—President Taft was in great anxiety tonight for news of his aide, Major Archibald W. Butt, one of the four Washington folk on the Titanic. The president had frequent inquiries made of the newspaper offices and the steamship agency.

No word had been received at a late hour at the homes of Frank D. Millet, the artists; Col. Archibald Gracie, or Clarence Moore, the three other Washingtonians aboard,

HARMONIOUS CONVENTION

GATHERING OF COOK COUNTY REPUBLICANS.

Temporary Chairman Calls Convention to Order, Ignoring Order of County Judge Owens—Platform Adopted and Delegates Chosen.

Chicago, April 15.—The Cook county Republican convention at the First Regiment Armory today, aside from a difference of opinion among the committeemen in two wards over the selection of delegates, was harmonious.

The appointment of an election commissioner to call the roll of delegates, failed to produce even a ripple of excitement in the meeting. The convention was called to order by the temporary chairman, the convention ignoring the order of county Judge Owens, who assigned that duty to election Commissioner H. S. Taylor.

After the convention was called to order, Commissioner Taylor was recognized. He announced that he had left a certified copy of the list of precinct committeemen with the chairman.

James E. McMurray was elected permanent chairman and a platform endorsing President Taft's administration and the state administration of Governor Deneen was unanimously adopted. County affairs were commented on in the platform. Representatives from each ward were selected as delegates to the state Republican convention at Springfield, Friday, April 19. A promise that the delegates to the state convention should abide by the popular choice for president in the recent primary together with a recommendation that the various congressional conventions likewise support the candidate approved by the voters, Col. Roosevelt, a plank in the platform which was unanimously agreed upon.

Abide by Primary.
Reports from Republican county conventions held throughout the state today say the county leaders signify their intention to abide by the wishes of the people expressed in the recent primary. In the majority of the counties Roosevelt was endorsed for president and Col. Channing M. Dewey, his Illinois campaign manager, for delegate at large to the national convention.

Col. Frank L. Smith, Illinois campaign manager for President Taft, said in the convention in Livingston county that it was his intention to vote in the state convention for Roosevelt. The Roosevelt faction was in control in the Champaign county convention, the home of Congressman McKinley.

COOK COUNTY DEMOCRATS HAVE LIVELY TIME.

Two Sets of Delegates Selected to State Convention After Court Orders Were Ignored and Doors Battered Down.

Chicago, April 15.—Conflict of court orders and the battering of sledge and axes on barred doors preceded the Cook county Democratic convention which met to day and selected to sets of delegates to the state convention.

For more than three hours 25 militiamen unarmed and under the command of a captain of the seventh regiment, Illinois National Guard, held possession of the Seventh Regiment armory in thirty-fourth street while the rival forces termed the Hearst-Harrison faction and the followers of Roger C. Sullivan, national Democratic committeeman, disputed the right to enter the armory. The Sullivan men insisted that the county judge had no right to order an election commissioner to open the convention.

men declared that his order alone would insure fairness. Battalions of police, reinforced by more than a hundred deputy sheriffs acting under the orders of County Judge John E. Owens, held control of the street outside the armory. Coroner Hoffman with 25 deputies was busy here officials and the sheriff's men with an injunction issued in the county superior court, restraining them from interfering. The injunction was waived aside and the coroner himself was summoned before County Judge Owens to answer a charge of contempt of court for confining with the orders of Judge Owens.

Repeated demands were made by Election Commissioner Czarnecki, Republican, delegated by Judge Owens to open the convention, that the door be unbarred. The militia defiantly refused and Judge Owens in person went to the armory and demanded admittance. He too, was refused. Then the police were ordered by Judge Owens to break in the door.

All morning rumors of bloodshed which would follow an active attack on the state armory had been circulated, and as the police with axes and sledges struck the iron door the crowds surged into the hall.

Doors Battered Down.
No shots came from the guardsmen. The outer door fell and then an inner door, barricaded with trunks and furniture, gave way. County Judge Owens and Commissioner Czarnecki entered. Captain Oetigan who commanded the guardsmen, was arrested.

The Hearst-Harrison precinct committeemen who had been standing in line wearing badges inscribed "Harmony," entered the building. Commissioner Czarnecki called the roll and the machinery of the convention was turned over to the delegates. Not a man of the Sullivan faction was present. The delegates and the Democrats known as Dunne men remained outside and after a long delay left the vicinity of the armory and held a convention in another hall.

As a result the state convention at Peoria Friday will be called on to decide between the two sets of delegates. The work of organizing the convention at the armory proceeded slowly. On each roll call in the temporary organization each delegate was obliged to submit his credentials. The Sullivan men declared that the delay was with deliberate intention to occupy the entire day so that the Sullivan men could not meet in the armory after the Hearst-Harrison convention. Captain Oetigan declared that his men held the armory in the interests of the state and that he refused to permit the police to enter through fear that state property might be damaged.

At one time during the siege he declared from a second story window "nobody can enter this building except on authority of John McGillen, the seer." McGillen is chairman of the Cook county Democratic central committee and leader of the Sullivan forces.

As an aftermath of the disturbance the court probably will wrestle with a series of contempt cases. All the police officials, the sheriff, Election Commissioner Czarnecki and County Judge Owens are under charge of contempt of Superior Judge McKinley's injunction. Coroner Hoffman faces a charge of contempt of court before Judge Owens.

Captain Oetigan was taken to the county court and as quickly hauled before Judge Cooper of another court on habeas corpus proceedings and immediately released. The captain promptly filed suit for damages for "false arrest and imprisonment."

The convention in the armory elected Robert R. Edfield temporary chairman and claimed 84 delegates. The Sullivan-Dunne convention in the thirty-first street hall elected John McGillen temporary chairman and claimed 803 delegates, 1,494 delegates being the full convention.

Bryan invaded a dozen Ohio counties to day, carrying out his purpose of taking his fight against the presidential nomination of Governor Harmon almost to the doorway of the state executive. ATMOSPHERE OF A COLLEGE.
President Harker of the Woman's college takes pardonable pride in the following tribute recently paid to the Woman's college by Dr. Charles M. Stuart, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, a man who is in touch with colleges the country over. Dr. Stuart said:

"I have had opportunity several times to visit the Woman's college at Jacksonville, and have been greatly pleased with the equipment of the college, with the thoroughness of the work done there and with the efficiency manifested in every department. But what impresses me most is the atmosphere of the college, the spirit of earnestness and enthusiasm on the part of students and faculty, and the devotion to the highest ideals of the church. I believe that if our people everywhere could understand the good work being done, and the spirit and atmosphere surrounding the young women who attend, they would at once by their gifts supply in equipment and endowment what ever President Harker might ask."

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Splendid Program Given by Musical Organization of Woman's College Under Direction of W. P. Phillips.

The third annual glee club concert of the Illinois Woman's college took place Monday night in Music hall before a large audience. The club has been practicing consistently during the past month and the young ladies' efforts were highly awarded last night in the splendid concert they gave. Their singing was in perfect unison and with tuneful melody, revealing nothing superficial. Director Phillips had carefully worked out each selection as though it were a solo and the audience present was quick to detect the delicate shading and precision, the singers displaying a mastery of the artistic contents of the various selections. Each number could be dwelt upon in a most complimentary manner. The work of the semi-chorus was especially good, the parts being well balanced and of a high order musically. The audience was in a responsive mood and manifested sincere applause. Miss Mildred Weaver most acceptably acted as accompanist.

Coffee Insurance

"You can trust any number of people with your money, but mighty few with your reputation."

There are two ways to buy coffee—one is to match coffee in the price and the other to match coffee in the cup. We think the latter the only right way.

When you purchase coffee of us you receive coffee that has been tested in the cup—Coffee of Real Cup value. The price is never considered until the goods are secured.

Do you realize that this method is a kind of trade insurance that very few buyers ever get? Isn't it worth looking into. The better is all ours—yours the security. Don't you think you can safely trust a merchant whose business success is built upon this principle. We deliver always the very coffee the purchasers believe they should receive.

We can't afford to trust our reputation to any salesman who comes along with a lower price. Our reputation depends upon the QUALITY of the goods we sell. We will protect it at all hazards because our reputation is built upon a strictly CUP QUALITY business.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The gymnasium work at the Y. M. C. A. has been discontinued with the opening of spring and the time is now given over to track work, baseball, hikes, etc. The older boys' class has organized into four track teams, which will continue to practice once a week until school closes. A "twilight" baseball league will probably be formed and this will be the means of providing excellent sport and splendid exercise for the seniors of the association. The swimming pool will probably be opened to day and then the aquatic sports will begin.

The Really Latest Styles— Those Fresh From Paris—

are only in the Pictorial Review Spring Fashion Book. It can't help being that way—for the Pictorial Review pattern business is the big part of the American Fashion Company, which supplies (as it has for twenty years past), the cloak and suit manufacturers with all their advance models. These manufacturers must have their styles three or four months before the retail selling season opens, so as to get their goods made up, so you will see why Pictorial Review fashions are offered you perhaps even before dry goods stores put the newest models on sale. This is also why Pictorial Review patterns are

Sixty to Ninety Days Ahead of all others—you could easily convince yourself, as have thousands of other women, by comparing all the pattern publications. If you do, just notice the numerous Pictorial Review styles for draped skirts, the latest waists, the new cutaway jackets—as against the one or two partially new or "warmed over" models shown by others. This leads us to say

When you select your patterns from the Pictorial Review Spring Fashion Book you do not run the risk of having your dress out of date as soon as it is made.

Pictorial Review Patterns, Too, Are Superior to All Others. Here are the Reasons

With each Pictorial Review pattern is a patented Construction Guide, showing how to produce a perfectly fitting garment with absolute certainty. There can be no home-made look about a garment made from Pictorial Review patterns; it looks right—fits right and stays right.

In each Pictorial Review pattern is a patented Cutting Guide. This shows how to lay out the pattern correctly—and just as scientifically as an expert tailor could do, so as to use the least possible material. There is absolutely no chance of making mistakes—no chance of cutting two backs or two fronts, no chance of wasting an inch anywhere.

Because of these Guides, there is great economy in using Pictorial Review Patterns. Other pattern makers, who can use no Cutting Guide, realize that you won't lay out the material as carefully as a professional cutter, so they allow an extra half-yard or so of material to compensate for your possible mistakes. You always pay for this extra material when you use other patterns—but with Pictorial Review patterns you save your goods.

These two guides, both FREE, are given only with Pictorial Review patterns.

REPUBLICANS HELD COMMITTEE SESSION

Delegates to State and Congressional Conventions Chosen—Resolutions Adopted.

At a meeting of the Republican county central committee held at noon Monday at the court house delegates to the state and congressional conventions were named and resolutions were adopted endorsing the candidacy of Col. Roosevelt for president, Charles Deneen for governor, Chauncey Dewey as one of the eight delegates at large to the national convention, Andrew Russell as candidate for state treasurer, Col. John R. Robertson as delegate to the national convention from the twentieth congressional district, and Robert J. Grier as candidate for judge of the Illinois supreme court.

In the absence of the chairman, Andrew Russell, Col. John R. Robertson called the convention to order and F. L. Gregory, the retiring secretary, called the roll. M. L. Hildreth was elected permanent chairman and F. E. McDougall permanent secretary by a unanimous vote. Just before the selection of a committee of three to appoint delegates to the state convention Enslay Moore, a Republican onlooker, asked that as Yates had carried the county, friends of Mr. Yates be selected as delegates to the state convention. Fred B. Henderson, R. L. Dye and Simeon Fernandes were appointed to select delegates to the state convention and J. H. Ray, Jr., S. D. Beers and Joseph De Goveia were appointed to draw up the resolutions.

The delegates to the state convention which is to be held in Springfield April 19, are: Andrew Russell, W. L. Fay, George Detrick, Charles B. Graff, George W. Davis, A. L. Meacham, M. L. Hildreth, H. H. Baneroff, William Mortimer and William Nunes, and the following were appointed as alternates: C. P. Wenpley, John J. Reave, John Cherry, R. L. Dye, E. E. Crabtree, James H. Brown, L. H. Clappitt, S. D. Beers, V. H. Lockett and Edward Kastrop.

Col. Robertson named the delegates to the congressional convention which is to be held in this city, and they are as follows: W. L. Fay, T. O. Graves, Capt. J. E. Wright, G. L. Kimber, Joseph De Goveia, Frank Mawson, Simeon Fernandes, J. M. Leonard, William Kastrop and James G. Fox.

The resolutions adopted by the committee follow:

Resolutions Adopted.
We endorse the Republican national administration and believe the policies of the Republican party as enacted into law are best for the financial, business and moral development of the country.

Resolved, That we endorse the administration of Gov. Deneen, and heartily recommend him to the people of the state for re-election.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt has always been a fearless and progressive leader in all things pertaining to the highest principles of government. We recognize the confidence shown in him by the people of this state by the vote given him in the recent preferential primary.

Resolved, That we do hereby endorse him for election to the highest office in the gift of our government.

We do hereby endorse Col. Chauncey Dewey, who so ably managed the Roosevelt campaign in Illinois, as one of the eight delegates at large to the national convention, and instruct the delegates from this county to the Republican state convention to vote as a unit for him.

Resolved, That in our fellow citizen, Andrew Russell, we take an especial pride.

For his manly conduct, high regard for the best things in citizenship, loyalty to the city in which he lives, and his own sterling worth as a man, he is held in the highest esteem by all who know him.

As a business man he holds an enviable position, gained by his own personal efforts, through the strictest integrity and most careful and painstaking attention.

He has always stood for the best in all things pertaining to his city, the county and state in which he lives, and in national government.

This state has seen fit to honor him on several occasions, and he has always filled the positions intrusted to him with honor and dignity.

The overwhelming vote given him at the recent primary election for the position of candidate of the Republican party for state treasurer shows the high regard in which he is held throughout the state.

We cannot speak in too strong terms in endorsing him for the honorable position of state treasurer and in recommending him to the voters of the state.

Col. John R. Robertson has long and faithfully served in many different capacities for the Republicans of our county and has often been honored with state positions requiring the highest skill and ability.

Resolved, That we take pleasure in endorsing him for delegate to the national Republican convention for the twentieth congressional district of the state of Illinois, and we do hereby authorize him to select the delegates from Morgan county to the congressional convention to be held in this city April 17, 1912, and do hereby instruct said delegates to vote as a unit for his election.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the candidacy of Robert J. Grier for the high position of judge of the supreme court of the state of Illinois.

That Rount college has property amounting to $100,000 and an endowment fund of $66,500, all of which has been built up by Jacksonville people. As instruction at the college is free to all, Catholics or non-Catholics, it is the intention of Father Crowe to ask all to assist in increasing the endowment fund. In the comparatively short time that this institution has been in existence it has accomplished remarkable results, both as an institution of learning and in a financial way. Its graduates have been quite successful in whatever work they have seen fit to take up and the school has done an unending amount of good in the community. With such a record of good work in the community for the institution, Father Crowe will undoubtedly be able to raise the amount required to make the endowment fund total $100,000.

AN ANCIENT DOCUMENT.

A representative of the Journal requested Mrs. Thomas Worthington to allow him to describe some of the felles which she has acquired from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Morrison, and her aunt, Miss M. A. Tucker. Among these there is a deed, yellow with age, from Meajah Townsend to Henry Wheeler, dated June 7, 1762, conveying property at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

This deed is of peculiar interest, not only because of its date and the ancient and quaint form in which it was written, but also because it is a part of the land owned by Mrs. Worthington's great, great, great grandfather in the village of Oyster Bay, and which remained in the family until about 1841, when Mrs. Morrison and Miss Tucker with their parents came to Illinois. It was then sold and a part of the proceeds invested in the year 1841, in the west half of the lot on Grove street in this city known as the "Morrison Place" (Mr. Morrison after his marriage having purchased the rest of the lot). Thus the two properties have a connected history of about one hundred and fifty years in one family.

The deed is written in a cramped hand but plain and legible. It starts out: "To all Christian people to whom these presents shall come greeting."

The location of the maker of the deed is Queen's county, island of Nassau and colony of New York. There is enough material in the document for half a dozen deeds of the present day. The grantor fully exonerates, acquits and discharges the grantee, his heirs and assigns from any further payment than the sum mentioned.

The grantor asserts that he is the lawful owner of said land and that he fully conveys the same to the grantee and the word exonerate occurs several times. The verbiage is most profuse and much of it repeated so that there could be no question about its terms being binding.

Annual Open Meeting Held at Woman's College—Musical and Literary Program Followed Dinner.

The twenty-fourth anniversary of the College Hill club was observed in a fitting way Monday night, when the members of the club and invited guests met with Mrs. Dr. Barker and Miss Weaver at the Woman's college. A delightful dinner was served in Phi Nu hall and afterward came the program and a social hour. Miss Louise Miller, Messrs. Max and Donald Swarthout furnished the musical numbers and Miss Annie Tanner read a paper for which "Progressive Germany" furnished a theme. Mrs. Marian Tanner, president of the club, presided during the evening and Mrs. E. S. Henne, who is the secretary, served in that capacity.

Dinner was served promptly at 6:15 after grace had been asked by Dr. J. H. Barker. The menu was an excellent one and the quality accorded with the service given by the "daughters of the club" assisted by a number of college girls. After the final course, Mrs. Tanner in very graceful language extended cordial greeting to the guests of the club and then in introduced those who were to take part in the program. Mrs. Henne read a report of the last annual meeting. Then Mr. Max L. Swarthout, with Mr. Donald Swarthout as accompanist, gave a group of violin numbers, playing each with fine expression. The three made widely varied demands of execution which were splendidly met. The selections were:

Oberlass Mazurka Wieniawski
Meditation Gounod
Polish Dance Drake
With Mr. Max Swarthout as accompanist Miss Louise Miller sang The Pine Tree Salter
When Sweet Voices Die Harris
Where Blossoms Grow Sans Souci

The three selections were given very artistically. Miss Miller's voice is a soprano of good range and quality and she sings with rare confidence.

Miss Tanner's paper was more than a paper, it was an address, showing a very deep and painstaking study of Germany. When Miss Tanner was asked a year ago some of the information presented was gathered and study and observation in Germany were supplemented by study here at home.

The picture of progressive Germany undertaken was emphasized, in the audience. The thoroughness of the German people in all that they undertake was emphasized, in education, scientific affairs, municipal operations. Berlin was referred to as the best governed city in the world and the efficiency of the railroad system was mentioned. The Prussian system has 40,000 men on the payroll. Express trains fly across the country, but accidents are rarely recorded, so great is the care taken. By parcels post one can send a package of twelve pounds a long distance for 11 cents and the same price is charged for a ten word telegram. The government operates both telephone and telegraph systems. The mail service of Germany is more prompt than our own and a special delivery system in the city of Berlin makes it possible to send a letter to any part of the city in half an hour's time for 7 cents.

"The efficiency of the school system is a cause for great admiration. The great universities, the secondary and elementary schools are operated on a high plane. The minister of education has charge of all school affairs and while there are distinct systems in all the states they are so closely related that a pupil who goes from one to the other loses no time. The health of every pupil is carefully looked after and a general supervision of the pupils is maintained in order that they may be guided into channels of activity into which they are most adapted. Eight years' school work is demanded and a very high percentage of the pupils go to the higher schools. An evidence of the high grade maintained for teachers is shown from the fact that in all fifteen years of education and training are demanded. One effort of education is to give the German appreciation of art and music. Instead of rag time in the parks there, one hears the productions of Wagner, Mozart and Mendelssohn. Industrially Germany is far ahead of the United States, that is in the relations of capital and labor. The German worker puts in more hours, all under less hurry and stress. He draws smaller wages, but his living cost is less and he knows that in the end a pension will protect him in old age. Labor disturbances are rare." The speaker paid a tribute to Bismarck and as an evidence that Germans are appreciating the treatment accorded them by their country showed that while ten years ago the emigration amounted to 121,000 annually that for the past ten years the figures have been 25,000. The address was comprehensive and only a few of the points can be mentioned here.

Dr. E. Duncan yesterday called attention to the traction provisions of the proposed franchise. Dr. Duncan thinks it important that the city reserve the right to let any interurban use the service as otherwise it would be impossible to interest any capital in an interurban here.

HORSE GOES BOND FOR ITS OWNER

I. N. Kelley, Arrested for Drunkenness, Gives Bond to Abstain for Six Months—Secured by Chattel Mortgage on Mare.

I. N. Kelley, who only recently was released from the county jail, where he had been serving sentence for drunkenness and disturbing the peace, was arrested again Saturday on the usual charge and was taken Monday morning before "Squire Coons" to receive sentence in the case. Mr. Kelley, at each offense has seemed very penitent and desirous of doing better and on this occasion he appeared more firmly resolved and made a strong plea to the justice and Chief of Police Davis. He said that if he could only be given a chance this time that he would abstain entirely from intoxicating drink for a period of six months and that to certify his intentions and secure him in his promise he would be willing to give up his seven year old mare "Cute," valued at $175 if he broke his pledge.

The chief of police and the justice were willing to accept the proposition made by Mr. Kelley and the papers were at once drawn. Mr. Kelley gave bond in the sum of $50 to abstain from the use of all intoxicating liquors for a period of six months, the bond being secured by a chattel mortgage on the horse.

The guests had decorated the home appropriately and all brought along plenty of refreshments which were spread in the dining room, the decorations being in pink and white. The many good things to eat were much enjoyed and Mrs. Hurst was the recipient of a beautiful library table. MISS VASCONCELLOS WILL BE JUNE BRIDE

Engagement to Mr. Clarence Smith of Springfield Announced at Party Monday Night—Wedding to Take Place June 11.

Announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Miss Joie Vasconcellos of this city and Mr. Clarence Smith of Springfield Monday evening at a delightful party given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Vasconcellos, 912 North Prairie street. The wedding will take place June 11 in this city.

The appointments for the party were most pleasing in every particular, the Vasconcellos home being decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. In the dining room, where an elegant collation was served, the table was made beautiful by the use of roses and pink and white ribbon streamers artistically arranged. In the center of the table was a basket of pink roses, the sweet scented blossoms concealing miniature white cards, containing the secret which was to be revealed. Leading from the basket to each plate was a narrow ribbon by means of which the guests drew from their concealment the cards on which was written "Smith-Vasconcellos, June 11, 1912," all that was needed to be said to bring forth hearty congratulations for the bride-to-be. The ice cream was served in molds of bride slippers, being in pink.

The remainder of the evening was spent in various games and contests. In a "Do and Don't" contest Mrs. Lois Lyman, of Springfield, a sister of the groom-to-be, was given first prize and Mrs. Etta Cassell, the consolation prize. A pattern game also afforded much amusement, the prize in this being won by Miss Marie Foley, while Miss Rinda Vieira received the consolation prize. In the peanut hunt Miss Lillie Vasconcellos received first honors. The hours proved most delightful for the twenty-five young ladies present.

Miss Vasconcellos is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Vasconcellos and is deservedly popular with a large circle of friends in this city. Mr. Smith is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Springfield and formerly resided in Jacksonville. He is now manager of the Ballard-Johnson lunch room in Havana.

As "Ed" Howe Sees Life

People often say, speaking of the country: "I don't know what will become of us." I can tell you: In ten years, we will be greater than we are now, and we are greater now than any other country.

By the time a woman has mastered the art of singing a great role in grand opera, you must admire the beauty of her voice and not the beauty of her face or figure.

A STUDY IN SMOKE.

Beauties That Greet the Eye From Any of Pittsburgh's Hills.

Robert Haven Schuchman, writing in the Metropolitan, says: "I never come within range of the unique spell of modern Pittsburgh without wishing that I might personally conduct thither the sage who so mendaciously declared that there is nothing new under the sun, for Pittsburgh is something new."

"From any of the city's hundred hills one can enjoy more varieties of smoke in an hour than there are kinds of cloud in a month. These range all the way from fairy shavings of ice and curls of driven snow, through geological strata of pure cream, mischievous, evanescent ringlets of bluish white, smudges faintly tinged with olive, aerial bushes of delicate rose, trees of orange and rusty red, through a hundred tones of gray, from the most ethereal fawn to sheer brutal dirt, then deepening to a black as rich as the glossy, tarry coal from which it sprang."

"One convenient thing about the smokescape is that you can enjoy some part of it wherever you happen to be. Looking west in the canyon of Fourth avenue one morning, the lower parts of the office buildings were quite obliterated by a dense, low lying bank of soft, dusky smoke. But as the eye traveled upward this cloud began to thin until, when it reached the cornices, every detail of them stood out sharply in the sunlight against a sky of pale sapphire. Such effects are as interesting as they are characteristic of the place."

IRON AND POWER.

The Link Between the Metal and the Great Nations.

In the sixteenth century the greatest iron making nations were Spain, France and England, and beyond all fear of contradiction these were the three countries which were then reckoned greatest, says the London Telegraph.

While Cortez was carrying the flag of Spain into the then unknown world and while the great galleons were bringing home to that favored nation treasures beyond the wildest hopes of the adventurers the myriad forges were alight in Catalonia and the armor of Castile was enabling a handful of men to seize the riches protected by many thousands of natives who had reached a high state of civilization, but knew not the methods of manufacture of iron.

And so it ever was, and, much as we may in theory and in sentiment regret the fact, so it is today. We hear a great deal about the reasons for the rise of modern Germany as a world power. It is worth noting that that country has risen rapidly into prominence as the iron and steel output has increased by leaps and bounds.

In the olden days it was the same. The Romans carried into Spain the knowledge of working iron and steel, and upon that foundation Spain rose to the might and majesty of a great world power.

THE SPRING MODE.

Stripes Made by Stitching on This French Suit.

IN BLACK AND WHITE EFFECT.

Though the material of this attractive little tailored suit seems at first glance to be of the black and white mixtures so fashionable this spring, a closer inspection reveals the fact that the fabric is really a very fine serge and the stripes are produced with rows of heavy machine stitching. This stitching slants obliquely away from narrow panels of stitching at back and front of the skirt, and a shawl collar with panels of the straight stitching at the edge has insets of wedgewood blue cloth stitched in black and small white pearl buttons. Smartness of this black a tune.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers. George Kimber of Waverly was a city visitor Monday.

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

The very great majority of persons need a tonic in the Spring or early Summer. The system undergoes a change at this season and the entire physical machinery is disturbed. The general bodily weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, little appetite, poor digestion, a half sick feeling and a general run-down condition of the system, show that the blood is weak or anemic, and a blood purifying tonic is needed to build up the deranged system and enrich the blood. The use of S.S.S. at this time may save you from a long spell of sickness, and it will certainly prepare you for the long, hot Summer. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened and depleted it could not successfully throw off disease germs, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of fever, malaria or some other debilitating sickness. S.S.S. is Nature's ideal tonic. It is a composition of the extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks which science and experience have proven are best fitted for a tonic to the human system. It contains no minerals of any kind and is therefore perfectly safe for persons of any age. PYTHONS AS PETS.

The Man Liked Them, but They Were Not Appreciated by His Wife.

An Englishman who spent much time in Bengal tells in Blackwood's Magazine about a couple of pythons that were kept as pets. He says:
"One hears a good deal about the snakes, but one sees very little of them at any time and in cold weather nothing at all. Indeed, the only snakes I saw were two great pythons which a planter kept in one of his indigo vats for his private delectation. He loved to watch them and feed them and poke them with a stick and see their flat, vicious heads drive at it with the speed and force of a steam hammer."

"His wife liked them less because one of them had once escaped from the vat and wandered into her bedroom.
It was daytime, and she was resting from the heat, and hearing it advance, breathing heavily, she thought it was her somewhat asthmatical fox terrier and told it to lie down. As it seemed to be making for her bed instead, she looked up to find that it was one of the pythons looking for a warm place in which to lie. Her screams brought her husband, who, annoyed by this escapement of a pet which his wife had never properly appreciated, thoughtlessly seized it by the neck, with the result that in a twinkling it had knotted itself around his arm and nearly pulped it before his bearer could arrive and get it by the tail."

"Two men, it seems, can deal with a python fairly effectively by grasping each an end of it, thus preventing it from weaving itself into the coils that crush. But no single man is of much use, for the reason that he cannot in the nature of things grasp and keep fast an eighteen foot length of writhing muscle. The planter told me that, as it was, his arm had turned black and blue all over, as if it had been squeezed in a heavy door, and it was weeks before he could use it. But he still loved his python."

PAYING THE DUTY.

Custom House Officials Have Some Queer Experiences.

PASSING A SEALSKIN COAT.

The Way the Matter Was Fixed Up
With an Appraiser and the Surprise
That Awaited the Owner—A Bride, a Ring, a Husband and a Bluff.

The general impression is that the life of a customs inspector is a very dull routine of hardship, but such is not always the case.

The average person believes there is a little romance about the life and unquestionably the tang of the sea, but it almost never occurs to him that it is one of the funnest businesses in the world. The element of humor never enters into the general appreciation of the customs man, but it exists nevertheless.

There is a deputy collector now in the custom house of New York whose experiences in several years are really humorous. He is a grave, solemn looking man, thus bearing out the traditions, but that does not prevent him from enjoying the odd incidents that bob up in his line of duty. Speaking of them, he said:

"I had an odd experience the other day. A young man from an office in Wall street had gone to Europe to be married. In London he bought his wife a ring. He had put it in his declaration at a value of $1,000. He brought his bride to me, and she held out her pretty little pink hand that I might examine the ring. It flashed and sparkled beautifully, but the flashes and sparkles didn't seem quite right, so I asked to be allowed to examine it more carefully. The bride blushing pulled the ring off and handed it to me.
I showed it to an expert appraiser, who promptly declared that it was a fake piece of jewelry worth about $10.

"I sympathized with the young man, and when I got a chance I told him the truth. 'Oh, yes,' he replied, 'I know.
You see, I didn't have much money with me, so I bought this for $100.
but I had to ring in a bluff on my wife. Don't give me away.' The poor fellow was willing to pay several times the value of the ring to make his bluff good, but we fixed it up for him without his bride knowing the truth.

"Another laughable experience, but more serious for the passenger, happened not long ago. When I boarded a big steamship from Europe I was approached by a man who introduced himself as a customs officer. I had known him as one of the most important collectors of one of the most important ports. I knew him very well by reputation. He was returning from abroad with his family. He explained that he was very wealthy and did not want to evade paying all the duty necessary, but he confided in me that he had a sealskin coat, bought in Paris for his wife, which he had not included in his declaration, knowing that sealskins could not be imported. Nevertheless, just because we were both members of the same fraternity, he wanted to know if there was not some way in which he could get the coat into the country.

"I would have been glad to help him,
but didn't see how it could be done.
However, I told him I would put the question up to the appraiser at the pier and if the matter could be arranged I would fix it up. The appraiser looked the coat over and told me to put it on the declaration as an imitation sealskin valued at $75. The western man was delighted.

"That's what I call clever," he said.
"A few days later I got a letter from this man asking me to call upon him at one of the most fashionable uptown hotels. I went to see him and had luncheon with him and his family.
When luncheon was over he made a little golden cone on the table. 'It consisted of a twenty dollar gold piece, a ten, a five, a three, a two and a half and a one, all in gold. He shoved the stack over to me.

"Just a souvenir, a reminder of your cleverness in getting that seal coat through for me," he said.
"I refused to take it, but he tried to press it on me and told me to give it to the appraiser, but I refused. Later, when his family left us, I asked him how much he had paid for the coat in Paris. He said he had paid $1,000.
He could hardly believe it when I told him that we had not falsified the declaration, that the coat was an imitation, that that $75 was its outside value. He called a bellboy then and there and sent the coat to a furrier to have it appraised. The furrier sent back word that he would sell him all he wanted just like it for $65 each."

Mirror, Crystal and Sword.

The three symbols of the imperial house of Japan are the mirror, the crysstate occasions. Each has its signifi-

"Be pure and shine" is the crystal's in-

THE STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE

There has existed some misunderstanding over the provisions of the Street Railway Franchise to be voted on by the electors of Jacksonville.
The objections, some of which have found their way into the columns of this paper, are the result of this misunderstanding and unfamiliarity with the construction, maintenance and operation of a street railway system. The statement has appeared that the ordinance must be very vital to this company, or it would not have been advertised as it has.
From the Company's standpoint it is an advantage to secure the passage of this ordinance. It defines clearly the rights under which the Company operates and does away with dispute and uncertainty such as have existed for several years. Perhaps the chief reason why the Company desires a ratification of the negotiations between it and the city authorities is because the franchise will settle without expense what otherwise would have been a matter of extremely expensive litigation. Should the question of this franchise go into the courts it would mean the expenditure of large sums of money on the company's part and similar expenses on the part of the city. It would mean a long drawn out legal struggle in all the courts of the country which the Company is desirous of avoiding if possible. As part of the agreement with Commissioners this Company promised to present the matter fully and fairly to the people of Jacksonville. The only manner in which this could have been done was through the columns of the daily papers. This has not been attempted through communications but on a strictly business basis.

Contrary to popular belief a street railway in a city of this size and laid out as Jacksonville, is not a paying proposition, if the lines and equipment are maintained and kept up as they should be. Last year's operating expenses and taxes amounted to $31,014.92, a total amount for interest, depreciation and operation of $59,582. The gross income on last year's figures from all sources was $52,891.65, leaving a deficit of $6,691; the above figures based upon the most conservative estimate possible. This Company operating its street car lines in connection with the other utilities is in position to stand this loss and maintain the lines in good condition and give good service; doing so, of course, with the hope and expectation of the improving condition of the city. Were the lines to be operated by a private concern it would be impossible to maintain the track and equipment and improvements on the above showing.

When these franchise negotiations began the Company presented an ordinance to the city which was not acceptable. The ordinance offered by the city contained some provisions not acceptable to the company. After many meetings these ordinances were combined. At the last conference, after an afternoon of discussion, the council requested that the Company officials withdraw and went into executive session. The commissioners then requested the Company representatives to appear before them and stated they had unanimously decided upon the ordinance which they would require. This ordinance is the one upon which you will pass today. In that agreement there was no dissent to any clause of the ordinance; later there was some objection to some parts for reasons not explained; however, the fact remains that the city secured every provision it demanded. There was no disposition to impose hardships upon the Company and it was unanimously decided that if the new design of one-man-near-side-operated car was practicable and safe that it was no more than fair to allow the company an opportunity to reduce in some small way its operating expenses; however, the commissioners were a unit in demanding that the city absolutely retain the control of the type of cars, the condition of the track and road bed and the service rendered. If the new cars are not absolutely satisfactory, if they are not safe or if the schedule cannot be maintained, these cars must be discontinued and replaced by other modern cars. The item of 3 per cent of the gross income of this company is unusual and obtains in no other city in this state, 2 per cent being the maximum. Quincy, a larger city than Jacksonville and one in which operating conditions are more severe, has allowed the one-man-near-side-operated car.

The fares now given in Jacksonville and stipulated in this ordinance are lower than in other places; for instance, this Company sells 100 tickets for $1, or a 4c ride. Your Commissioners demanded that school children up to 18 years of age be given half fare.

Something has been stated in regard to an interurban line the Illinois Traction System, which operates this Company, has done all in interurban building in this state for the last five years. The lines in Jacksonville were originally bought for interurban purposes. Antagonistic sentiment prevented the building of this line after the material was on the ground. This Company will welcome the building of an interurban line into Jacksonville and unless this is done by others will in time do this itself. This, of course, depends entirely upon the feeling shown toward it and whether or not the expenditure of money here is welcomed. The Commissioners here demanded and received terminal facilities, for all interurbans on easy terms. Under the terms of this franchise any Company may use the tracks of the Jacksonville Street Railway, after receiving permission from the Commissioners so to do and the fair treatment of this company is assured by the provisions of the franchise.

Some references have been made in newspaper articles to track bonding and regulation of voltage on the trolley wires of this company; these provisions were not brought up in the franchise negotiations for the simple reason that they are regulated by conditions and had they been brought up there would have been little objection. Voltage on the wires of a street railway company is limited by the current taking ability of the motors under the cars. Standard street railway voltage over the United States is about 550, which is the amount of current used here. The voltage used on the interurbans, where the cars have high speed, high powered motors, is only 650 and cannot be greater. The voltage in use on the city light plant transmission lines is much greater and runs higher than 2,300 volts.

The bonding of the tracks so as to insure return of the current to the central station is an item of construction, which is as necessary as are the ties and rails; the return of this current is necessary. There is no likelihood of any danger to the city water mains by electrolysis, as were there to be any condition of this kind existing, the gas mains of this company would suffer the greatest deterioration. These questions, if raised are done so through a lack of knowledge pertaining to street railways.

The interests of the Jacksonville Street Railway Company and the city are mutual. This company is a large tax payer in the city and business interest alone would make the growth and development of the city of Jacksonville a question in which it is vitally interested. It is endeavoring to give good street railway service and asks some consideration at the hands of the people.

Your commissioners worked hard and faithfully on the ordinance presented to day; they received practically every demand they made. There are very few street railway franchises in which the city receives 3 per cent of the gross receipts and retains absolute authority to regulate and dictate the kind of service, kind of equipment and condition of the road beds and track. It settles an old question of dispute, gives the company an opportunity to improve its property and maintain good and safe service and secure for the city adequate compensation, regulatory features and supervision over the operation.

The Business Men's association after hearing every objection against the franchise and going into that section thoroughly endorsed it and urged its adoption. They approved of the fair and impartial spirit in which the negotiations have been conducted and believe with the commissioners that this company should be given an opportunity to conduct its business in as free a manner as possible and that the city should receive adequate compensation and reserve to itself proper supervision over the affairs of the company.

We have endeavored to give the people of Jacksonville a proper understanding of the provisions of this ordinance and have caused it to be published in full in both the daily papers several times; we have had it posted prominently around the city and have shown the present conditions of the company and have not tried in any particular to conceal or hide any features that are of advantage to the company. We have tried to place the matter before you in a fair way.

Realizing that the objections have not come from those who are actuated by any desire to injure, but more from a misunderstanding and lack of knowledge which has caused them to misconstrue some of the provisions of the ordinance we trust to the fairness and public spirit of the people of Jacksonville for an endorsement of this agreement between your commissioners and the city.

Yours Very Truly,
The Jacksonville Street Railway Co.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me and have an operation, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like I, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it?

PERILOUS BOATING

A New Zealand Stream That Yields a Series of Thrills.

RUNNING THE RIVER RAPIDS.

The Journey Down the Wanganui Is Highly Exciting In Spots, Where the Swaying Steamer Plunges Through the Lines of Boiling Breakers.

Steamboating in New Zealand, to judge by Charles Edward Russell's account of it in the Twentieth Century Magazine, has in it more excitement than relaxation. It is a more or less nerve racking experience, not only for the anxious passengers, but for the seasoned steamboat men as well.

The swift water courses that come down from the lofty backbone of the islands are full of rapids that can keep the most skillful pilot on the anxious seat until they have been successfully "run." This is the story of such an achievement somewhere on the Wanganui river.

The captain, a sunburned and active young Scot, stands at the great wheel forward on the upper deck, whence he can see bow and stern. Two stout Maori youths sit on the forecabin; two hover above the rudder; all are armed with long, iron shod poles that are to be objects of your anxious concern before the voyage is done.

The boat is slipping smoothly along the unrippled reach. You look up of a sudden and catch your breath. The rapid is directly in front of you, the steamer is tearing into it, and how can any vessel get through such a place? Here goes the narrow stream, roaring and slinging past the rocks. You can see the bottom everywhere. It looks only an inch or two from the surface.

The whole thing pitches visibly downward. Beyond at a lower level shines the smooth, dark green surface of the next reach. The green and the silver are beautiful. The singing of the water is music, but for these you care not, for you see plainly that in another moment the boat, even now lurching suggestively, will be rolled over like a log, and you will be grasping at some bowl der in the flood.

Meanwhile the captain spins the wheel back and forth like a squirrel's cage, with his gaze fixed intently upon the water just ahead, as if he read through it and scanned the stones beneath. The brown Maoris stand forward and aft, with their poles in their hands.

As the boat plunges into the first line of boiling breakers the bow sinks under you, the swift current catches the stern and slings it sideways. A tremendous clatter arises, the boat careens and shakes as if she were falling apart, and you, standing on the upper deck and nervously holding the hand rail, give yourself up for lost, for the keel is already traveling on the rocks and gravel of the bottom.

"Now, then! Now, then!" yells the captain. The Maoris put their strength upon the poles. Just as the craft seems sliding sideways into the bowlders that line her path she slips out through the passage into the placid green and silver of the next reach, and the captain, sounding the jingle bell, settles down to a cup of tea, holding the wheel with one hand. You could not touch bottom here with the statue of Liberty.

If I can read men better than rapids the Scot himself is not always sure how he is coming out of these tangles. Sometimes his quick, rasping orders to the Maoris have the ragged edge of anxiety, and his manner of tearing with hands and feet at the wheel indicates a considerable concern. Once I heard him mutter under his breath the national slogan: "I have run doots! I have run doots!" as we shot into a particularly formidable piece of water.

The channel, no more than wide enough for the little hull, turned sharply at the bottom of the slide, and I had something rather worse than doubts as the boat went sideways down, seeing what was ahead for her. If in an instant she can gather full speed ahead she can slip through; otherwise plainly she will strike her side against the reef and capsiz.

"Now, then, Jumbo," shouts the captain as he paws with one hand for the engine bell, "give it to her!" The propeller buzzes. The Maori... with feet braced, tug at the poles. They seem to be too late. With a bang the boat hits the bank, careens far over and amid the startled screams of the passengers slides off into the deep water and goes safely on her way.

I conclude that that pilot must be a master of his craft. Of a score of places he is able to hit the bank at the single spot that is safe.

The Advance of Science.

We used to think that the smartest man ever born was the Connecticut Yankee who grafted white birch on red maples and grew barbed poles. Now we rank that gentleman second. First place goes to an expert, never attached to the Berlin war office—who has crossed carrier pigeons with parrots, so that Wilhelmstrasse can now get verbal messages through the enemy's lines.—Lippincott's.

TRUSTED THE SUN.

Indian Origin of "the 10 o'clock" Boundary Line.

From a point near the mouth of the Miami river extends northwest through Indiana a boundary known as "the 10 o'clock line." This is one limit of an Indian grant. When the tribe had agreed to cede a portion of its territory to the whites a meeting was held for the purpose of marking out the ground. A surveyor was present and had mounted his compass and telescope on a tripod.

The head man of the tribe went up to the instruments, stared steadily at them for awhile, grunted and returned to the circle about the council fire. Not a word was spoken by any one. Soon another Indian arose, walked sedately to the instruments, gravely examined them, grunted and returned to his place by the fire. This example was followed by half a dozen others, after which a short consultation ensued.

The chief then approached the white men. "That what Indian know," he said, drawing a small circle on the ground with a stick; "that what white man know," drawing a larger circle round the first; "this what nobody know," he added, pointing to what lay without the last circle. "White man know that," indicating the instruments; "Indian not know it. Indian know sun. He never cheat. Him always same. Him throw shadow. Indian give white man land one side."

After long consultation it was decided that a line drawn in the direction in which the sun would cast a shadow from an agreed point at 10 o'clock should be made the boundary. The white men taking the land on one side and the Indians keeping that on the other.—Exchange.

HOT FOODS IN RUSSIA.

The Steaming Scene in a Railroad Eating Room.

We stopped at Lubin for supper. The guard unlocked our car, opened the door and pointed to the station, where we found a monster eating room, with huge lunch counters on either side and long rows of tables down the middle. Everybody was standing up. There were no seats anywhere. Hot food drinks were served at the side counters and smoking coffee and tall glasses of hot, clear tea. The Russian swallows only hot drinks and eats only hot foods. On the center tables, set above spirit lamps, were hot dishes with big metal covers. There were glasses of hot drink for a few kopecks, which the Russian pours down all at once.

Taking a plate from a pile standing ready, you help yourself to what vitamins you choose. There were hot doughnuts with hashed meat inside, hot apple dumplings, hot juicy steaks, hot stews, hot fish—all hot. When you have eaten your fill you pay your bill at a counter near the entrance, according to your own reckoning. The Russian is honest in little things, and nobody doubts your word or questions the correctness of your payment. The eating room was full of big, tall, robust, fair haired, blue eyed men and a few women. The Russian is big himself, he likes big things, he thinks on big lines, he sees with wide vision—too wide almost to be practical. Hanging around the station were groups of unkempt, dirty peasants. We see such groups of gaping peasants at every station, always a hopeless look of "don't care" in their eyes.—William Seymour Edwards in "Through Scandinavia to Moscow."

The Stove of Our Fathers.

The stoves of a hundred or so years ago were not things to be lightly passed over by the human vision if they were all like those advertised in a New York paper of the time in these terms: "A few Pyramidal Stoves, shaped nearly as follows: Standing 6 feet 6 inches high, with lion's feet, the bust of General Washington on top, the arms of the United States on each side, with regulating doors. The whole moulded, ornamented and finished in a masterly style; forming an elegant stove for coal or wood; appropriate for Churches, Public Offices, Halls or large Stores."—New York Herald.

Armor and Ancestors.

According to the Revue Scientifique, it is possible to trace in modern and quite poor people the marks of armor bearing ancestry. The wearing of casques and armor pressing on the necks and bodies of generations produced certain birthmarks, which can be found today on members of families "not in good social position." But investigation has proved they are of gentle descent.

ANOTHER ANNIVERSARY.

Just 51 years ago yesterday Capt. Alex Smith signed the first enlistment roll for the first company enlisted in the state during the war of the rebellion. George H. Esterbrook had an office over the place where Mr. Smith was employed and when he had his paper ready he took it down stairs and went into the place where young Smith was and took his name. Mr. Esterbrook was captain of the company and it was in the three months service and when they re-enlisted in the three years service he was made major of the regiment. He now lives in Carrington, N. D., and is 86 years old. The only other line officer living is Major Johnson of Springfield.

Capt. Smith was corporal in his company in the three months service. In the re-enlistment he was chosen lieutenant, July 25, 1861, and later succeeded Captain Esterbrook in the command of the company.

HAS STRENGTH OF YOUTH GONE?

The Pain and Disease That Time Has Wrought May Be Cured and Life Made Happy Again.

Some one aptly remarked that a man of 20 envies the man of wealth, but that the man of 50 envies the man of health. That this is true in every man or woman who has passed the meridian of life can testify of their own experience.

People who are afflicted with chronic diseases have more than one thing to worry about. Besides the suffering, pain and inconvenience occasioned by the malady or weakness that weighs them down, they are wondering day and night if there is not a skillful Physician somewhere, who can apply a remedy which will drive away diseases and return, in part, at least, the health and strength that once was theirs.

Then, perhaps, at set of sun, they live again in retrospect the long happy days of childhood, and as they wonder, in imagination, up and down the dusty corridors of time, from memory's great storehouse will come this sad refrain:

"Backward, turn backward, Oh, Time in thy flight, Make me a child again, just for to night."

Not only does the longing come but the heartache, and the silent cheek will steal down the wrinkled cheek as thoughts of youthful days and scenes come crowding back to haunt the weary vision.

They were strong and vigorous; life flowed in every vein. The blooming cheek, the sparkling eye, the steady nerves and muscles of steel, all told the tale of youthful health and strength and happiness.

But now! Why, cruel Time, what ruin hast thou wrought! The silvered hair, the wrinkled cheek, the falling vision, the tottering, aching frame—all are thy heartless, ruthless work. With thy bony fingers thou hast fastened misery and pain, stiffened joints, palsied limbs, and slow and creeping death upon uncounted millions who, today, are breathing prayers for succor and relief.

But the days of life are not all night, nor are the nights all dark. To some of earth's afflicted, hope holds out a kindly hand and says: There is both relief and cure for you.

To such the United Doctors offer an avenue of escape. If your case is helpless they will tell you so; can a cure be effected, their knowledge and unerring skill in diagnosis will plainly indicate the fact, as well as point the remedy that will effect a cure.

At the Jacksonville Institute on the second floor of the Farrell bank building, they have the best and best equipped medical institute in the state. They have every instrument that science has ever perfected for the diagnosis and treatment of chronic diseases. They use the microscope and centrifuge for examining the blood, urine and sputum. They use radiometer for detecting diseased conditions. They are instruments of their own invention and used by no other doctors.

At this institute you are freely welcome to call and receive the priceless benefit of their free consultation and examination. If they cannot cure you they will tell you so frankly and not accept a penny of your money. You run no risk when you go to see the United Doctors; you either get your health, or you keep your money.

Thousands of people, some of them your friends and neighbors, have been cured by the United Doctors after all others had failed to relieve, and their testimonials are on file in the institute and can be seen by any one. These friends and neighbors would not testify to these cures were they not true. You can believe what they tell you. While you may have been disappointed by others, still there is hope. You can be cured by Nature's remedies as used only by the United Doctors.

The United Doctors' Jacksonville office, on the second floor of the Farrell bank building, is open only on each second Friday and Saturday. The next date on which it will be open is Friday and Saturday, April 19th and 20th.

Examination and consultation are free to all.

TAFT INSISTS ON AID TO FARMERS

Says Department of Agriculture Work Must Go On.

LABORS FOR CONSERVATION.

Far-reaching Legislation Administered by Scientists of Rank Brings Good Results to Tillers of Soil—Food and Drugs Act Upheld to the Letter.

In his inaugural address President Taft called attention to the deficit then existing in the revenues and the consequent necessity for right economy in expenditures. However, the president singled out the department of agriculture as an exception. He said, to quote his exact words, "In the department of agriculture the use of scientific experiments on a large scale, and the spread of information derived from them for the improvement of general agriculture must go on." This view the president has steadily maintained, and repeatedly has urged appropriations for the work of the department.

In his comprehensive message on conservation President Taft said, "The feature that transcends all others, including woods, waters, minerals, is the soil of the country," and that all means at the government's disposal should be used to conserve the soils, adding, "a work of the utmost importance to inform and instruct the public on this chief branch of the conservation of our resources is being carried on successfully in the department of agriculture."

Reports made recently to Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture by the heads of his bureaus justify this solicitude on the part of the president for the department. In calling for these reports the secretary asked that they be brief and that they mention notable achievements of the last five years only, inasmuch as that period is really the period of fruition in the department, the period during which, owing to the broad foundations previously laid by the training and grouping of many corps of scientific men, by securing far-reaching legislation, by gathering together masses of statistics and other information, by providing scientific and other equipment, it has been possible to produce most marvelous results for the common good of the people.

Taft for Conservation.

In his conservation message President Taft emphasized the importance of the maintenance of the forests and urged their scientific treatment "so that they shall be made to yield a large return in timber without really reducing the supply," and in other messages he pointed out the necessity of reforestation. In accordance with these views much available work has been done in protecting the national forests and by researches in the laboratory of the department at Madison, Wis., and in the past five years the work of reforestation burned over areas has proceeded at the rate of 15,000 to 20,000 acres a year. The department takes justifiable pride in its forest work, considering the administration of 100,000,000 acres of land protected and managed for the public benefit a great achievement.

Since Jan. 1, 1907, when the food and drugs act went into effect, more has been done to provide a good, clean food supply than in all the preceding life of the nation. A wonderful change has also been effected in the character of the drugs on sale. The department has a trained force of inspectors and chemists doing excellent work in all parts of the country in behalf of pure foods and pure drugs. This salutary law, however, needs amendment, as the supreme court held in May, 1911, that its provisions, to quote President Taft's words in his vigorous message to congress a month later, "do not cover the knowingly false labeling of nostrums as to curative effect." The president added: "An evil which menaces the general health of the people strikes at the life of the nation. In my opinion the sale of dangerously adulterated drugs... constitutes such an evil and warrants me in calling the matter to the attention of the congress."

Work of Soil Mapping.

Of importance to the farmer has been the work carried on in the past five years of soil mapping and classification, so that now the area included is 407,000 square miles, or nearly 41,000,000 acres. The value of this work is incalculable.

Disseminating the valuable information acquired by the department has proved a wonderful work. Practically 200,000,000 publications have been distributed since Secretary Wilson assumed control of the department, and more than half (102,508,103) of that number have been distributed within the past five years.

Other work accomplished by the department includes a comprehensive system of weather warnings and forecasts, the meat inspection service in which 2,500 experts are employed, who take every pound of meat sent interstate is fit for human food, protection of live stock, the checking of rodent pests, the destruction of noxious insects, the conservation of water supplies, the building and care of public roads and the policy for better farmhouses, so that every dollar expended in the prosecution of this work in its numerous phases has brought back a hundred fold to the people.

A DEED OF DARING

One of Mad Anthony Wayne's Remarkable Achievements.

STORMING OF STONY POINT.

This Brilliant Feat of Arms, in Which Success Was Won at the Point of the Bayonet, Was One of the Most Desperate Incidents of Any War.

One of the most marvelous achievements credited to American bravery and strategy was that of the capture of Stony Point by Mad Anthony Wayne, who was one of the most picturesque figures of the American revolution. When he was superseded in command of the Pennsylvania line, even after his brilliant success at Monmouth on June 28, 1778, a less ambitious and patriotic man would have resigned his commission.

It seemed the irony of fate that the setback in his career should follow so closely the official encomiums for his work at Monmouth, but that very setback gave him Stony Point—the greatest opportunity of his life—and he made good.

There were two important factors, discipline and valor, that entered into this remarkable achievement, the capture of a fortress on the Hudson held by the British and considered almost impregnable. Stony Point was an island and the fortress was built on a rock which was precipitous and rough. It was guarded by three redoubts and protected by a double abatis of logs that extended across the peninsula. The post was garrisoned by 607 men, who felt so secure in their position that they were wont to refer to the post as the "Little Gibraltar."

On July 14 General Wayne assembled all his troops at Sandy Beach, and at that moment none of his soldiers knew the plans of their commander. The following day the march began over a wilderness trail and in perfect silence. Not a man was allowed to leave the column under penalty of death. By 8 o'clock that night they were within one and one-half miles of the British fortress. Then the men were told of the desperate work ahead of them and the battle order read.

No man was allowed to load his musket, and the battle was to be won or lost with the bayonet alone. One portion of the order provided that any man found retreating a single foot was to be put to death at once.

Close to midnight the order to advance was given. The fort was to be attacked from all sides. Once in motion General Wayne lost no time. The British opened fire with guns, both great and small. Seventeen of the twenty men in one advance guard were shot down, but the companies in the rear eagerly pressed on. General Wayne himself, struck in the head with a musket ball, fell stunned. He recovered in a moment and, rising on one knee, shouted: "March on! March on!" Then, turning to his aids he begged them to take him into the fort so that if his wound was mortal he would die at the head of his column.

General Wayne's wound drove his followers to a frenzy. They dashed up the hill and battered down all opposition. Colonel Fleury, a French officer in the American service, at the head of his determined band forced his way up the redoubt and as the soldiers poured into the fort grasped the British flag and lowered it. The victory was complete. The British lost 53 killed and 543 taken prisoners, of whom 70 were wounded. The Americans lost 15 killed and had 83 wounded. It was one of the most daring and desperate incidents of any war.

From every point of view the storming of Stony Point was a remarkable feat of arms, but back of the success of that night was a story of preparedness, the cause which has always been overshadowed by the brilliancy of the result. General Wayne had trained his men, stimulated their pride, enforced rigid discipline, had them at the point of attack at the right moment and then with inspiring valor led them.

The victory at Stony Point naturally aroused a tremendous enthusiasm, and it came at the right time. The country was depressed if not quite discouraged, and Stony Point was like a tonic. It gave the people more strength, more courage and at a time when they sadly needed it. Not only did General Wayne receive official recognition, but he was in receipt of hundreds of congratulatory letters expressing popular and professional opinion. — Chicago News.

DR. NORBURY GAVE SPLENDID ADDRESS

Impressed Anew the Full Meaning of Individual Responsibility.

At the recent meeting of Woman's club the address of the afternoon was delivered by Dr. F. P. Norbury, whose theme was "Individual Responsibility From the Viewpoint of Social Psychology." The club members counted themselves fortunate in being able to arrange for an address of such great value.

Dr. Norbury as an introduction to the subject said: "As we accumulate experience and acquire the useful art of healthy meditation we find that everyone sooner or later learns the truth of the saying that no one liveth unto himself. As Arnold Bennett says each one finds he is more or less an amateur in the art of living and the mystery of his own existence is seldom understood. He may learn after a time that he is but an atom—a part of a stupendous whole and that the best part of his life, his morals and social qualities as revealed in conduct; his reaction upon his fellows in daily intercourse, is the resultant of a long life of experiences, not only of his own but of his forebears. If man proceeds to study himself further he will learn that he is an individual, a lone unit—a personal atom; that he is a part of a generation, which generation is a lone unit in the chain of generations which has grown until man was created.

"Unless we approach man in the study of himself as an individual; study his mental characteristics; his instincts and their importance not only of his mental life but of his conduct, we cannot ascribe to him responsibility, nor even interpret the history of his development into a moral being.

"The human mind has certain innate or inherited tendencies which are essential springs as motive powers of all thought and action, whether individual or collective and are the basis from which character and will of individuals and of nations are gradually developed under the guidance of the intellectual faculties. These primary innate tendencies have different relative strengths in the native constitutions of the individuals of different races and they are favored or checked in very different social circumstances of men in different stages of culture; but they are common to all men of every race and of every age. These relatively unchanging characteristics are what we call instincts and are classified by MacDugall.

1. The specific tendencies or instincts.
2. The non-specific tendencies, arising out of the mind in the complexity of its mental evolution.
Dr. Norbury then proceeded to describe some of the more fundamental or primary instincts with associate emotions, saying that he wanted to make a plea for the individual—that we may understand his place in the universe, in society, in the home and that he may in part understand himself; when conduct is analyzed from the basis of instincts.

Such information is necessary, first that we know the individual and second, that we may then place responsibility. These great forces the instincts, under the thoughts and actions of men and of societies can be distinguished; can be analyzed so that given a certain problem in conduct we can measure reactions and can thus know how to apply the remedy to turn such conduct into right and useful channels.

The problems show how intricately interwoven are instincts in their complexity and how necessary it is to study these problems, especially juvenile court problems from the standpoint of psychology.

The first instinct described was that of self-preservation with accompanying emotions of fear and terror. The modes of reaction were shown to have been the means of leading primitive man to higher social discipline, including self control as found in the individual, also as intellectualized it has been incorporated in parts of our religious practices, thus transforming fear and terror into guides for development of personal and social responsibility.

The next instinct was that of pugnacity with its accompanying emotion of anger. This instinct, transformed and sublimated, was shown to be the foundation for the peace conference at The Hague, that it was intellectualized into combat by the ballot and its operation is not injurious but constructive in developing personal responsibility. Further emulation and the spirit of service are evidences of higher social sentiments which have displaced "combats" and through "group selection" have made service to our fellow men pre-eminent and forcible remnants of the own under pugnacious instinct.

Another instinct which has contributed to the development of civilization—a social instinct—is the gregarious instinct.

This instinct developed civilization—it first formed tribes, then families; then communities, cities and nations. It is this instinct which causes the herding of humanity into cities to day. It is this instinct—not through economic necessity—which leads into the labyrinth of social problems growing out of the "tendency to herd. It is the consciousness of kind" and leads to satisfaction in the integration of kind in race, social status, occupation, etc. Carried to its height it develops social attributes of law and order and teaches men to bear each others burdens.

The last instinct described was the maternal instinct, the greatest prime mover for good—the greatest potential force in all human life and activities. Its associate emotions, love and sympathy, are the greatest humanizing emotions in family and national life. This most venerated instinct is the one which insures race perpetuity and is solemnized and embodied in traditional law and religious rites. It is the greatest agency in developing individual responsibility because it teaches self sacrifice, tolerance, humility, devotion, duty and love of the best and noblest in character and development. This instinct, vicariously, molds the humanities, gives art, literature, music their sublime and venerated place in culture.

Dr. Norbury then reviewed how instincts were essential parts of the individual's development of responsibility. He described the psychology of responsibility and especially impressed the fact that the individual was simply a trustee for future generations and as such he must be a moral agent, recognizing that he must think not only of himself and his generation, but the generations which are to come. He described man's duty in social disease problems, in sex problems, in alcoholism and other disorders. He then spoke of the problems of adolescence. Then of responsibility in public health problems, showing this was a duty of prevention and a man was not doing his duty as a citizen unless he was willing to accept individual responsibility affecting his own community. The community too has its individual responsibility and public health was one of these responsibilities.

Here in Jacksonville there was a most important public health problem in which individual responsibility was a potent factor—in which the community was a factor: viz, the water question. Water was a necessity, an essential factor in life, and the communal spirit of service must recognize that individual responsibility in this situation demands a sublimation of the public health instinct that the community may prosper.

The highest ideal of citizenship to attain a knowledge of individual responsibility and practice it. One thus learns that no man liveth unto himself, but lives for service to others.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

HELD QUARTERLY MEETING.

How Natural?
Wife—Howard, I want some money.
Husband—All right, how much?
Wife—About $50.
Husband—I just cashed a check for $100. Better take it all. You'll use it more wisely than I. Get yourself a new dress or something. I blow every cent I have loose. You're the economist of this family. I am sure I don't know how many times we'd be in bankruptcy if it wasn't for you, dear.
—New York Times.

The Bride's Pie.
The "wedding cake" of today was formerly called the "bride pie" and in some regions was regarded as so essential an adjunct to the marriage celebration that there was no prospect of happiness without it. It was always circular in shape, covered with a strong crust and garnished with sweetmeats. It was the proper thing for the bridegroom to wait on the bride in serving the cake; hence the term "bridegroom."

Not News to Him.
"Oh, my boy, my boy! When I was your age I had never seen the inside of a theater. I had never tasted a cocktail, and I had never lost money on a bet of any kind."
"I know, dad. Grandmother says you were the runt of the family and always very backward."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Gravity.
A precocious child who had been attending one of the public kindergartens fell from a ladder. Her mother caught her up from the ground in terror, exclaiming:
"Oh, darling, how did you fall?"
"Vertically," replied the child without a second's hesitation.—Satire.

IMPORTANT LETTER TO ALL WHO SUFFER.

"I suffered from indigestion for a long time. Last May I almost died. The doctor told me it was acute indigestion and I could not be cured. Since that time I have suffered very much, as some days everything I ate, even light food, as soft boiled eggs, would distress me. I lost fifteen pounds. Sometimes I felt that I could not live another day. A month ago I got a box of M-O-N-A tablets. Before I had used them a week I was better. I have used two boxes and I feel as well as I ever did. Eunice A. Peters, Jackson, Ga.

Use M-O-N-A stomach tablets for quick relief from sour stomach heaviness, heartburn, belching of gas and distress after eating. They are guaranteed. Large box 50 cents at Shreve and druggists everywhere.

You are hereby notified there is pending against you in the circuit court of Morgan county, on the

Anna Held's Opinion of An Automobile

Seattle, Washington. Gentlemen: I cannot help but say that the big, luxurious Oakland car that took me so easily and comfortably around your beautiful boulevard is the easiest riding American built car I have seen. Of course, my foreign machines cost me thousands of dollars, but this is the first American built car that I ever thought their equal.

Respectfully yours, Anna Held. You will note by Miss Held's letter that she has had experience with foreign built cars which cost her thousands of dollars. You will also note carefully that the Oakland is the first American built car that she ever thought the equal of the high priced foreign made cars. This is one of the best tributes that has ever been paid the Oakland, and, coming as it does from a woman who is in a position to judge of the comparative merits of high priced cars and medium cars, it should carry great weight.

DECLINE IN WHEAT

July Dropped Two Cents in Last Hour on Chicago Board of Trade

Chicago, April 15.—A vertical drop of two cents a bushel for July wheat in the last hour today on the board of trade recalled to many traders the collapse of the famous Letter deal. The decline in the present instance, however, was only one of a series of the most spectacular fluctuations that have ever been crowded into a single session of the Chicago board of trade.

Unlike the Letter collapse, the selling out today for one or more of the big owners in wheat in this city was believed to have been done at a handsome profit, due in part to tenacity in holding on through an entire year of losses, but more to the almost delirious buying which seemed at last to have reached a climax. Purchasing today, however, was on a scale beyond even the huge volume of Saturday's business, following a week dispatches telling of ruin to winter wheat becoming worse and worse. It was the willingness of the breaks and bulges that in the main convinced traders there had been important, if not complete, realizing on the part of the leading longs. The fact was not overlooked, though, that tonight prices were on an average above the closing figures of Saturday night, and in the case of the May option showed a net gain of more than a cent a bushel.

THE OLDEST SWITCHMAN ON THE DIVISION.

This is W. C. Beck, 2248 Spruce St., Quincy, Ill., who has been for 42 years in the employ of the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. He says: "Constant exposure gave me kidney trouble, with a steady dull pain in my back that would turn into lumbago, and my kidney action was irregular. Since taking four bottles of Foley Kidney Pills I am free from all these troubles and gladly recommend them." City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

"HOLY GROUND."

The subject of Dr. Miller's sermon last Sunday morning was based upon the call of Moses out of the burning bush, and proved to be very inspiring as well as entertaining. He declared that Moses had been a failure up to this time. And that the forty years previous to the call had been a blank. Moses had been finely educated and had spurned great opportunities, to be loyal to his people, and the result had been obscurity. But when the call did finally come, he was ready, and instead of trying to destroy and put out the fire, he went to it, to investigate the cause of this strange phenomenon. As he drew near, he heard the voice of God, immediately recognized the divine call, and obeyed and saved his nation. The doctor said the hand of God was not only upon Moses, but was in the work of the Israelites in their bondage in building the pyramids, for in these colossal concrete tombs were stored records which were now being used to corroborate the old testament. The doctor made the sermon very practicable to every one, by the illustrations of many individuals in history who have been ready and have been called out of places of obscurity to lead nations from bondage to liberty and barbarism to civilization. That often times afflictions and shadows in life were brought on that his children might the more clearly see the hand of God, and hear the voice of God.

W. T. Badgett, member Coleman Post No. 500, Mt. Vernon, Ill., says he was long bothered with his kidneys. "Their action was irregular and caused much distress, with a constant dull dragging pain in my back. After taking Foley Kidney Pills my kidneys have been restored to normal action and the pains dispelled. I recommend them to my friends and fellow comrades." City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

A MOTHER'S CARE.

A careful mother will not give her child a medicine without knowing it is pure, contains no opiates, and has healing and curative qualities. Such a medicine is Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills. It is a compound of pure, wholesome ingredients, cough, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat, chest and lungs. Best and safest for children and grown persons. Contains no opiates. City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

IS HANDSOME FOLDER.

In the interest of those who will attend the Grand lodge session and annual reunion, B. P. O., in Portland, Ore., July 8-13, 1912, the Denver & Rio Grande railroad has just issued a handsome folder in a royal purple effect, which is beautifully illustrated with views along its line, as well as many scenes in and about Portland. The folder contains a program of the week's entertainment at Portland and a description of the route over the Denver & Rio Grande.

H. K. Olmsted, 10 Chestnut St., Galesburg, Ill., says: "I suffered with pains over my hips and in my back, which in cold weather were almost unbearable. My bladder was inflamed and made me very uncomfortable. Soon after I started to take Foley Kidney Pills I began to improve, until now I am again in perfect health and free from pain." City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

STATE NEWS.

A convention called by the Illinois Vigilance association is now in session at Bloomington, especially considering the best way to make a crusade against immorality and the white slave traffic. Eminent persons from various parts of the land are in attendance.

A saloon was opened in Quincy Saturday night and the owner who succeeded a Salvation Army post forgot to take down the sign in the window "Sunday school at 9 a. m." Ramona French, daughter of a respectable couple in Quincy, ran away from home and was finally located in Galesburg when she had just taken a dose of poison. With much difficulty her life was saved and her parents notified.

Dr. E. B. Montgomery and wife of Quincy thought they couldn't live together and separated and began suit have agreed to kiss and make up again.

The people of Kickapoo township, Peoria county, voted dry at a recent election and the whisky forces are trying to get the verdict at the polls set aside owing to some informality.

While Mrs. Reckseick, an aged woman of Quincy, was away from home her house, which was of brick, fell down owing to the foundation being undermined by the softening of the ground after the hard weather. She would have been killed had she been at home.

The scoundrel who worked the ten dollar game on a lady in Peoria did it again with a little girl who had been left in charge of a store for a short time. He has not been caught.

MINERS' WELFARE CAUSE OF TAFT

Bureau of Mines Marks Great Step Forward.

SAVES HUNDREDS OF LIVES.

Discovery of Danger of Coal Dust Important—Handling of Explosives Made Safer—Government's Experimental Coal Mine.

The saving of many lives annually—the lives of miners throughout the United States—will be one of the splendid results that will follow the establishment of the bureau of mines, one of the great achievements in the interest of labor of the administration of President Taft.

The excessive and unnecessary loss of life in the mines of this country was one of the primary causes for the creation of this bureau. For years hundreds of miners were killed in mine disasters, and practically nothing was done to check the terrible loss of life.

Spurred on by President Taft, an act creating the bureau of mines was passed by congress and became effective on July 1, 1910. John A. Holmes of the United States geological survey was appointed as the first director. Mr. Holmes was reputed and certified to be the best trained man for the place obtainable in the United States. The chief experimental station was established at Pittsburgh, where the investigations of the problems entrusted to the bureau have been prosecuted so successfully for nearly two years.

In the year 1907, the most disastrous of all years in the American coal mines, 3,125 miners lost their lives. This represented 4.80 of men killed for every 1,000 employed. In coal mines in Europe less than two miners are killed out of every 1,000 employed. As a result of the work conducted by the bureau of mines and the wise use of an appropriation of $150,000 made by congress, the death rate has been already reduced to practically one-half what it was in 1907.

One of the notable achievements of the bureau of mines was the demonstration of the fact that coal dust in a bituminous mine is more dangerous and deadly than gas. It had been the belief heretofore that gas or fire damp was the greatest menace to the miners, and little attention was given to the accumulation of coal dust. The bureau of mines proved to the satisfaction of the miners as well as operators that coal dust would explode and, unlike fire damp, carried no warning with it. The keeping of dusty mines wet, as recommended by the bureau of mines, was found to reduce materially the chances of explosion of coal dust.

The number of deaths in the mines has been greatly reduced as a result of the testing of explosives under the direction of the bureau of mines. In the year 1908 the coal mines in the United States used 2,000,000 pounds of short flame explosives, and at present nearly seven times that quantity is being used with greater safety, due to the co-operation of the coal operators and the bureau of mines.

The establishment of an experimental coal mine at Brucetown, Pa., twelve miles from Pittsburgh, is still another notable achievement of the bureau of mines. It places the United States in advance of other nations with respect to this research and experimental work in mines. Numerous tests are made at this experimental mine, from which many excellent results are obtained.

Still another important work which is conducted under the auspices of the bureau of mines is the rescue of entombed miners. Since the creation of the bureau many hundreds of lives have been saved. At the big mining disaster in Ohio one of the rescue corps of the bureau of mines arrived at the scene thirty-two hours after the disaster. Three men were rescued who had been given up as dead and allowed to remain in the mine. At another time one man was found alive among 150 dead, and today he is the sole survivor of that terrible catastrophe due to the splendid work of the rescue corps.

Before the bureau of mines was made possible by the interest of President Taft, which was followed by the necessary legislation for its establishment, there was no organized effort in saving the lives of entombed miners. Time and again men have sacrificed their lives in vain attempts to rescue their companions. This unnecessary sacrifice of life has been stopped by the co-operation of the state authorities to the bureau of mines. An investigation of the fuel resources of the United States is also being made with a view of checking the waste and increasing the efficiency with which fuel is used. This latter phase of the work is a part of the practical conservation policy of the Taft administration.

Dr. Wiley Supports Taft. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who recently resigned as chief chemist of the department of agriculture, when in Cincinnati several days ago made the following statement:

"President Taft is the one man who stood between me and destruction at Washington. When efforts were being made to 'assassinate' me Taft proved my only protector. He stood by me, and I am grateful to him. I hope he will be re-elected president."
